With regard to the transfer of personal data to recipients outside our company, it should first be noted that we treat all customer-related facts and evaluations of which we gain knowledge confidentially. We may only disclose information about you if this is required by law and the legal requirements for disclosure are observed, you have consented or we are authorized to disclose your data. Under these conditions, recipients of personal data may be, for example, public authorities and institutions (e.g. tax authorities and criminal prosecution authorities) where there is a legal or official obligation.

5. Data transfer to a third country or to international organisations

A data transfer to states outside the European Union (so-called third states) only takes place if it is necessary for the execution of your orders, it is legally prescribed (e.g. tax reporting obligations) or you have given us your consent to this.

Without this information, we will generally not be able to enter into or perform the contract with you.

9. Profiling and automated decision-making

In principle, we do not use fully automated decision-making pursuant to Art. 22 GDPR for the establishment and implementation of the business relationship. Should we use these procedures in individual cases, we will inform you separately if this is required by law.

10. Data security

We maintain current technical measures to ensure data security, in particular to protect your personal data from the risks of data transmission and from third parties gaining knowledge. These will be adapted to the current state of the art.

11. Amendments
